Clearwater Wildlife Tours is proudly owned and operated by the Clearwater family, whose connection to the Otago Peninsula spans more than 180 years. Garrett Clearwater first arrived in Dunedin in 1838, and he and his descendants settled on the peninsula, clearing the land to farm crops and raise sheep. Today, nearly two centuries later, we are dedicated to restoring and protecting this land and its wildlife for future generations.

By joining one of our tours, you're helping to safeguard native species and enhance their natural habitats. Our mission is to provide you with an authentic wildlife experience - one that leaves you with unforgettable memories and a deeper appreciation for this remarkable environment.
